Excerpt: . . . instruments and concentration are also included as instruments for the estimation equations that include the interaction between concentration and imports. An alternative set of regressions was estimated using the effective rate of protection as an instrument in 16 place of the nominal tariff rate. The results were very similar to those discussed below. As discussed by Bound, Jaeger and Baker (1995), the finite sample bias of IV estimates may be quantitatively important when the correlation between the endogenous variables and the instruments is weak. In particular, a good approximation of the bias of IV estimates relative to OLS estimates is provided by $(1/F)$, where F is the F statistic for the instruments in the first stage regression. The F-statistics for the instruments employed here range from 2.1 to 4.4, indicating that the potential bias of the IV estimates is small relative to the OLS estimates. 17 The IV results are reported in columns (3...
