And thou, who seemest Love s sweet twin, Unless indeed thou art his daughter, If now thy dreams of love begin, Like rosy light on some clear water, Deem not that he who charms thee first, Though thou hast charmed, will e er be thine! For ever what is earliest nurst, Though brightest, fairest in its shine, Is fleet to perish as the pine, That quick consumes in od rous blaze; While that which liveth years and days, Like vestal light, undimm d, undying--Is after-lighted--when decays The fire that was the censer s trying. Then, as with Persian scents perfumed, Or rooms with burning sandal brighten d, How steady is life s way illumed--How all its gloom and dark enlighten d . The Lord that loveth all indeed, Doth never break the bruised reed, But lulleth aye the gale to peace, When...
